Counsel

Providing value through a solid background in the chemical and pharmaceutical sciences coupled with in depth experience in prosecution and litigation

Mary E. Chleblowski, PhD focuses her practice on worldwide patent prosecution and portfolio management in the chemical and pharmaceutical sciences. Mary has a wide range of prosecution experience including application drafting, prosecuting world-wide applications, and interference work. In addition, Mary has worked on oppositions to applications and patents including third- party submissions in the US and oppositions before the European Patent Office.

Mary's litigation experience includes conducting fact and expert discovery; preparing and defending witnesses; drafting pleadings, motions, and briefs including for claim construction; and preparing for district court trials and Federal Circuit appeals. This experience, coupled with her extensive prosecution practice, allows her to provide strategic client counseling including writing opinions and conducting detailed due diligence projects. Mary has researched and prepared opinions relating to patentability, validity, freedom-to-operate, infringement, and Orange-book FDA listing.

Prior to joining McNeill Baur PLLC, Mary spent more than 10 years as a patent attorney at Finnegan, Henderson, Farabow, Garrett, & Dunner, LLP, most recently as an expert prosecution trainer. Prior to Finnegan, Mary earned her PhD in Chemistry from Emory University and conducted research at the University of Avignon in France, the University of Florida, and Niagara University.
